

American Express Chief Diversity Officer Nancy Testa Joins Board of Directors of Community Health Charities

Washington, DC (Date TBD, 2017) – Community Health Charities, the leading nonprofit focused on raising awareness and funds for health by uniting the nation’s most trusted health charities with caring supporters and businesses, has elected American Express (AMEX) Executive Nancy Testa to its board of directors. Testa was unanimously elected this past fall and joined the December 2016 board meeting as the nonprofit’s newest member.

Testa is currently the head of Human Resources for the Global Merchant Services & Loyalty Group at American Express, where she is responsible for driving the human capital strategy to support top business priorities. She was also recently appointed as Chief Diversity Officer for American Express.

Testa is a graduate of The University of North Carolina at Charlotte, where she graduated with a bachelor’s degree in psychology. She is also an alum of Capella University in Minnesota where she received a master’s degree in organizational management; she is also a member of the Society for Human Resources Management with a Senior Professional of Human Resources certification. Testa currently resides in New Jersey.

American Express is a long-term strategic partner with Community Health Charities; the organization provides health and wellness resources for employees, including webinars, podcasts, web info and newsletters on asthma, arthritis, heart disease, caregivers and more.

About Community Health Charities
